WASHINGTON, February 14.—[Special.]—Congress is getting badly behind with its work.

The present session must expire in two weeks from next Friday, and the amount of legislajion that absolutely must be had before that time is sufficient for a month's steady employment of the congressional machinery. Few of the general appropriation bills have been passed. Over some of them stubborn contests are threatened. Congress will soon be setting

Mr. John Jamison today resigned the posi-

Mr. Jamison has been at the head of this de-present administration came in has been under constant fire, as he is a pronounced republican.

Mr. T. E. Nash, chief clerk of the postoffice de-partment, will succeed Mr. Jamison. There were applicants for the place from nearly every

A POINT OF ORDER. The House Spends the |Day on Parliamentary Tactics:

WASHINGTON, February 14.—In the house, Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, called up the resolution offered by him on Monday last, discharging the committee of the whole from further ing the committee of the whole from farther consideration of the senage bill granting a pention to Mary S. Logan, and making that bill a special order for tomorrow, immediately after reading of the journal.

Mr. Breckenridge, of Kentucky, made a point of order that it was not competent for the gentleman to call up the resolution for action, but that it must be referred to the committee on rules.

mittee on rules.

Mr. Willis, of Kentucky, combatted this position. He had recently studied the rules in relation to another matter (the Blair educational bill), and he was thoroughly convinced that it was within the power of a member to offer a resolution to change the rules, let it lay over for one day and then call it up as a privileged question. The constitution gave the house the power to amend its rules. If the speaker ruled that every proposition to change the rules must be referred to the committee on rules, 322 members of the house would be un-der control of a majority of that committee, consisting of three men.

Mr. Hendorson contended that even if the point of order had any merit, it was presented too late. The proper time to have made the point was when the resolution was originally offered.

Mr. Crisp, of Georgia, thought that the point of order was well taken. The proposition was not one to change the rules, but to take a particular measure from out of the operation of the rules. To hold that such resolution was privileged for immediate consideration would be an utter destruction of the rights of the min be an utterdestruction of the rights of the minority which were sought to be protected by the rules.

Mr. Hammond, of Georgia, took the same

Motions to suspend the rules could only be entertained at certain specified times. and required a two-thirds vote; and if the res olution was held to be privileged, the rules could be suspended at any time, and by a simple majority vote.

The speaker said that, in view of previous decisious, the chair had little doubt as to the right of a member to give notice to a change of the rules, but the question upon which the chair had very grave doubts was as to the status of the matter when again called up. The chair would like to examine into that question.

The matter was then laid over till tomorrow It was at the speaker's suggestion that Mr. Henderson consented to a postponement. The decision of the speaker will be of importance, owing to the fact that should the point of order be overruled, the friends of the Blair educational bill will resort to the same method to secure a day for the consideration of that

Mr. Willis, of Kentucky, as a privileged question, offered a resolution discharging the committee on education from further consideration of the Blair educational bill, and making that bill a continuing special order for February 19th, and asked that it lie over for one day. Mr. Springer, of Illinois, made a point of order, that it was not in order now to offer the resolution, or that if offered, it must be referred to the committee on rules.

The speaker decided that under clause 11, rule 28, a member had a right to give notice of a proposed amendment of the rules. The question as to what the status of the resolution would be when it was called up, the chair did not decide. He would take that matter under advisement. Mr. Springer, protesting against the ruling, offered a resolution making the tariff bill a special order for Thursday next. It shall be in order to consider the bill in the house, and after thirty minutes debate, the previous ques-tion shall be deemed as ordered, and the bill shall be put upon its passage, and but one dila tory motion shall be entertained until the question is put on the final passage of the bill.

Mr. Dingley, of Maine, made a point of order that the ris lution was not a notice of a change of rules, and therefore could not be enter-

DEATH ON THE SLIDE. A Horrible Accident to a Tobogganing

RUTLAND, Vt., February 14 .- A terrible accident occurred on a toboggan slide here about 9:30 o'clock this evening. James C. Barrett, a leading member of the Rutland bar, and son of feating memory of the retardant part and son of ex-Judge Barrett, of the supreme court, was fatally injured. The board that lined the slide on one end become split and loosened and a narrow end projected into the slide, pointing upward. Not knowing this, Barrett, his wife and Mrs. Charles P. Harris, mounted the toboggan and descended the chute. Mrs. Barrett was in front and passed the splinter unharmed. Mrs. Harris, who was in the center, came in contact with it, sustaining a long and deep gash on the outside of one thigh. It then entered one of Barrett's thighs on the inside and came out from his back above the hip, having penetrated the abdomen and ruptured the in testines. It threw him from the toboggan and he was taken up impaled, the board projecting several inches at each end, but he was con-scious. Medical aid having arrived, the board was removed and the man was taken to his heme, where he now lies under the influence of anaesthetics, with no prospect of recovering. PRICE FIVE CENTS

HE HAS BEEN HANGED ONCE.

A Protest Against the Second Hanging of a Citizen of New Mexico.

SANTE FE, February M.—Friends of Theodore Baker, now coasned in the penitentiary here under sentence of death for the murder of a man in East Colfax county, this territory, think it particularly hard that he should be compelled to mount the gallows. The territorial supreme court has just rendered a decision in his case affirming the sentence of death, and fixing the date of his execution on the 18th of this month. The prisoner's friends will see if they cannot get the case before the United States supreme court, on the ground that Raker has once been hanged for the crime, and that the proposal to hang him again is in violation of the constitution of the United States, which declares that a man—shall not be twice put in jeopardy for the same offense.

Baker's crime was the killing of Frank Uhruh, a little more than a year ago. Uhruh was a surveyor, and Baker had been asked by him to keep a watch upon affairs at Uhruh's ranch while the latter was absent. In this way Baker and the woman say that Uhruh attacked Raker, and that the shooting was in self-defense. Neighboring ranchers assert, however, that the liaison was notorious, and that Baker and the woman had more than once threatened to make way with Uhruh. The position in which the body of the murdered man was found, and the fact that bullet marks in the wall of the room indicated that the shooting was all on one side, also served to fix guilt upon Baker. The prisoner is a young man of more than the ordinary intelligence, and the woman, who is now in jail at Springer awaiting trial as an accessory, is prepossessing in appearance.

As soon as Baker was placed under arrest he was conveyed to Springer, where he was seized by a mob and lynched before he could be put in iail. Morder had been of frequent occur-at Springer awaiting trial as an accessory, is preposesesing in appearance.

As soon as Baker was placed under arrest he was conveyed to Springer, where he was seized by a mob and lynched before he could be put in jail. Murder had been of frequent occurrence in that vicinity, and it was enough for the crowd to know that the officers had a man charged with that crime. It is not probable that one man in ten who participated in the lynching of Baker knew anything about the circumstances of the crime with which he was charged. Having hanged him in the regulation style to the limb of a tree, and fastened the loose end of the rope to the trunk, the mob watched the dangling body for a few minutes and then left the spot, dividing up among the various saloons of the town, where the incident created only a passing sensation. While the lynching was going on, the sheriff was watching affairs near by, and as soon as he saw the crowd disperse he ran quickly to the hanging form and cut it down. With the assistance of a deputy he carried the body to the back door of the jail, and on entering that building, and giving orders not to be disturbed, he proceeded, with the assistance of a physician, to revive the prisoner. Baker had been hanging by the neck for ten minutes when he was cut down, and at least fifteen minutes more elapsed before the sheriff had him in the jail. All the time the prisoner was unconscious and apparently lifeless. But the sheriff went to work on him with great energy, and after half an hour of rubbing and the application internally and externally of spirits he was rewarded by seeing the man who had been hanged open his eyes and look wonderingly about him. All that night the sheriff never left his charge for a minute, and by morning of the next day he had Baker sufficiently revived to breath with regularity and to eat in a mechanical way some light food.

Thus far no one in Springer knew of the recovery, except the sheriff, his depucy, and the doctor, and it was decided that the matter should be kept a prof strange experience was placed under the care of competent physicians here. At first Baker could not talk at at all, but gradually his thoughts became more collected, and on several occasions he described to visitors, the Sun correspondent among them, his sensations as he was hanging to the limb from which he had been loosely swung. For six months he suffered intensely from pains in the head and from dizziness, sometimes becoming almost deranged, being unconscious of his surroundings. During these periods he would live over again his experience at a rope's end, and on recovering he would be weak and greatly depressed in spirits, On his trial the facts as to his previous execution were ignored, though half a dozen men from Springer were present and ready to swear that the real Baker had been hanged once for the murder of Lithub. The identification of had been hanged once for the murder of Uhruh. The identification of the prisoner was complete, of course, but no amount of testimony will ever satisfy the Springerites that the mau now in custedy here is the one that they lynched. Among the most active friends of the prisoner now are the men who helped to hang him, and if they have any influence he will not again go the rope.

Although under the decision of the territorial supreme court Baker must hang a week from next Friday, it is the general belief that he will be respited for thirty days at least, to give his friends time to make some efforts in his behalf.

COTTON IN CAROLINA.

Condition.

Columbia, S. C., February 14.—[Special.]—
If anything could convince the average South affairs in the state should do so. An intelligent farmer of Abbeville county, in conversation today with The Constitution correspondent, thus discoursed of the situation:

There is not grain enough in the country to feed the stock until enough in the country to feed the stock until spring. No provisions have been kept on hand for the people to support life. Much of the cattle and stock has been sold to meet the demands of creditors, sold to pay for the supplies used in the production of the cotton crop. To meet the coming necessities our farmers will be compelled to buy corn, flour, bacon, hay, stock, farming tools, harness, shoes, clothing and nearly everything else of use in life. There is no money on hand to meet these demands. The outlook is gloomy, indeed, and nearly the whole trouble comes from a want of judgment. The remedy is to raise supplies, and abandon the fatal mistake that has brought us judgment. The remedy is to land a brought us abandon the fatal mistake that has brought us

CITIZENS' MEETING.

Business Men of Macon Starting a Verita-ble Boom,

Macon, Ga., February 14—[Special.]—This afternoon at 3 clock a citizens' meeting was called at the city hall to consider the furtherance of Macon's interest and the fostering of a boom in our business affairs. On motion of Judge J. C. Harris Mr. S. R. Jaques was called to the chair, Bridges Smith and M. M. Folsom were appointed secretaries.

Mr. Lee Ellis stated the object of the meeting. He suggested, as Macon has been heretofore without an advertisement, that the citizens of the town come together and have some concert of action. He thought that the sub-scription of a dollar or two every month, from the prominent business men of the city would pay for the cost of printing a pamphlet and circulating it in other communities, thereby advertising to the world

Macon's resources, and inducing foreign capi tal to come here to seek investment. Mr. Jaques delivered a short address, saying that he thought that what the town needed worst was a leader.

Mr. Lee Ellis then suggested and made a motion to the effect that a committee of five be appointed, including the chairman of the meeting, to convass the city for subscriptions to pay for the issuing and circulating a pamphiet descriptive and statistical, and that the same committee be asked to attend to the printing and circulating of such pamphlet. subscription to exceed two dollars per

Mr. Henry Horne spoke at some length, stating that heretofore the welfare of the city had only been furthered by individuals at various intervals. He recounted the prosperous condition of Alabama cities, and said that he had found that the reason for this prosperity was concert of action among the citizens, and their determination to make their cities prosperous. He said that the mechanics of those cities have been a great leverage power in the booming of those towns. He also advocated the encouragement of mannaturing associations by means of which weithy people might be in capital to start such manufacturing enterprises as may be of benefit to the city. He thought that Ma on would make a better impression on visiting strangers than those Alabama cities if properly shown up. He stated that a gentleman would be here next week to inaugurate a project that will redound to the benefit of Macon to a large degree. The gentleman in engetion he said contrals unlimited. entleman in question, he said, controls unlim ited capital, and all that is necessary is to give him that reception which he deserves.

Mr Creekett spoke in favor of the establishment of manufacturing enterprises and encour-aging the same. He thought that the city council should encourage these enterprises. He thought that taxes and insurance should be made lighter. He said that the city council should take the tax and heavy license off such industries. He also spoke of the enterprises that are outside of the city limits, only paying one per cent state taxes, while the the one per cent state taxes, while those inside the city must pay one and a quarter city tax in addition to the one per cent state tax. He spoke about the city hav-ing run a tannery out of the city by requiring twenty-five dollars license. He mentioned the fact that an ordinance had been passed some years ago exempting factories run by steam or water from taxation thirty to sixty years, but that the ordinance had been treated as a dead letter.

Colonel Lanier then spoke, advocating great care in the selection of a committee to secure the necessary appropriations for advertising purposes. His address was a cool and clear-headed illustration of the objects to be gained by the appointment of this committee, and by

by the appointment of this committee, and by kelping them in their efforts and enlarging their powers, and if needed, enlarging the committee itself to seven or nine,

Mr. E. D. Hueguenin spoke, advocating the committee of five instead of a larger one. He said that he thought the city needed leaders. He related an anecdote of Colonel Evan P. Howell's visit to some big feast out west, when he had a hanner placed on the stage hearing he had a banner placed on the stage bearing the name "atlanta." Some one asked, "Where is Atlanta? Is it in Georgia?" "No," he replied, "Georgia! is 'jn Atlanta." Mr. Hueguenin thought that was the way everybody should feel about Macon.

Mr. T. J. Carling spoke, favoring the exemp-on of license tax, if not ad valorem tax, from manufacturing industries.

Mr. A. G. Butts spoke in favor of the appointment of the committees, citing the manner in which Atlanta got up a pamphlet by appointing a committee composed of all the various lusiness enterprises of the city.

Mr. Crocket moved that the city council be asked to make up a census of statistics regarding the business wealth of Macon and the suburbs.

Mr. Walter B. Hill delivered a timely dress, substantially favoring the pushing of the public enterprises and fostering its prosperity. He said that patriotism and public-spiritedness was just as much hinding on a man as any other duty on earth. He favored the organization of a respect business union.

Other addresses were made, and the meeting was very harmonious, and those present seemed to be highly elated over Masen's prospects, and there is little doubt that Mscon has hatched out a very frisky sort of

"By far the most serious and important matter brought for our investigation was the lynching of James Moore, on the night of August lith, 1886. While we have been convinced by positive ovidence of the guilt of some parties who took part in this great outrage, still the greater number of those actually present in breaking the jail and lynching Moore will, by reason of their identity not being clearly established, escape the disgrace and punishment which should follow their awful crime, we do not altogether exculpate those who are officially charged with the keeping of the "peace, good order and dignity of the state." A OUEER STORY.

How a Negro is Said to Have Entrapped a White Man.

ATHENS, Ga., February 14.—[Special.]—A merchant near the city, who is also a preacher, has gotten himself into a bad scrape. It seems that he became deeply enamored of a negro woman, and made what she considered insultwoman, and made what she considered insulting proposals to her. She, in order to entraphim, consented to meet him at a certain hour, and persuaded her husband to dress himself in her clothes and keep the appointment. This he did, and the love sick swain, suspecting nothing, was prodigal with his protestations of affection. The husband soon made himself known, and the denouement was striking and realistic. The negro talks of prosecuting the white man, and makes all sorts of threats. Several suits are likely to grow out of the matter. At any rate it affords considerable talk for the immediate neighborhood.

The Insolvent List.

From the Valdosta, Ga., Times. The tax collector has about closed up and settled with the county and state. The insolvent list amounts only to $6 for the year 1886. SHORTTALKS WITH FARMERS ON FARM TOPICS.

Seeding Down Clover and Grass-Something Abou Crayfish and Motes and Mole Rats-Onio and Their Cultivation-How to Get Eid of Bermuda Grass-Etc., Etc.

Seeding Down Clover and Grass. Farmers without experience touching above crops often fail in securing good stands. The first point to be noted is that their seeds are very small and will not bear deep covering cannot be put in with a plow. If they are, only those which happen by chance to be left near the surface come up; the remainder are practically lost. A little clover plant cannot stretch itself up through two inches of soil, it would become exhausted before it reached the surface. All seedlings feed at first upon food laid up in the seed. In small seeds this store of food is very small, hence the seedling must begin to get its food from the soil quite early; hence, also, the surface soil for such plants must be rich in food and finely pulverized, so the little delicate roots can permeate it easily Grass and clover land, therefore, should be thoroughly barrowed; roller and harrow should follow each other until a very fine tilth is secured. Before harrowing begins manure should be broadcasted. For clover seed alone nitrogenous fertilizers may be dispensed with entirely, unless the ground is very poor and destitute of organic matter; in that case, a little cotton seed meal may be applied, say 100 pounds per sere. The chief manures should e, according to the lights now before us, pot ash, lime and phosphoric acid; kainit and acid phosphate will supply these. Kainit will supply rotash, and the phosphate will supply both phesphoric seid and lime: the last in form of sulphate of lime, or land plaster. One hundred and fifty pounds each of kainit and acid phosphate will make a fair dressing for an The land being prepared and manured for clover, the next step is to sow the seed. This may be done from the 20th of February to the 20th of March. Have the soil freshly harrowed, sow the seed (twelve to fifteen pounds per acre), and cover by running a roller over them. This will cover the seed sufficiently, and at same time "firm" the soil, and thus prevent its drying off too quickly. All small seeds, in freshly prepared soil, are best covered with a roller. When clover is sown in the spring, it will not take the scythe much the first year, unless the land is exceedingly rich and the rains abound. It may grow high enough to cut late in the season; if it does, it should be cut, and not allowed to mature a crop of seed. A crop of seed taxes the strength of the plants, and is prejudicial to the next year's growth, which is the principal one, and which ought to furnish two good cuttings. After each cutting a dressing of plaster may be given to advantage, say 100 pounds per acre. On rich soils well adapted to clover, fair cut-tings may be had the third year, but it is well to let the second growth of the third year mature a crop of seed and leave it on the land. Follow the clover the fourth year with some other crop, say with corn, and follow the corn with small grain; and without further seeding a good growth of clover will follow the grain. Properly managed, it is never necessary to seed a piece of land to clover but once, and yet have as many crops of it as one desires. Clover seed may also be sown on growing grain. Run a harrow lightly over the grain field, sow the clover seed and let the rain cover them. On rich land this does very well.

THE FARM QUESTION BOX.

[Dr. W. L. Jones, confessed the highest and salest agricultural authority in the south, presides over this department. He solicits practical sugges-tions from farmers and others interested.] Reader, Oxford, Ala, -Does the "cray fish" exist in all parts of the world, and if not to what parts Crayfish are very widely distributed; found in all the great continents, Africa excepted. None as yet found in it, but much of it has not been explored. Madagascar near by has a species of crayfish. They are widely distributed over United States, both on Pacific and Atlanti slopes. Also in South -America, over Europe and northern Asia; they are found in Australia, where they grow to be a foot long. Circumscribed localities are sometimes devoid of them.

Thus it is said there are no crayfishes in Scotland north of the river Tweed. Of course it is not the same species in all the different locali-

K. B. M.. Hampton, Ga ; How shall I compost fowlhouse manure to use on vegetable garden? Stiff clay soil; rather poor for all kinds of vegetables. How long after it is composted will it be ready for use.

K. B. M.

Fowlhouse manure is tolerably rich in nitro gen and contains some phosphoric acid and potash. The last two are not, however, present in sufficient quantity for the nitrogen. An ex-cellent manure may be made by mixing equal parts, by weight, of the manure, acid phosphate and kainit. It is taken for granted that the fowl manure is pure, that is not mixed with dirt and trash.

W. G. B., Toonigh, Cherokee county, Ga.: C. W. T., of Huntersville, S. C., wishes to know if his stable and cow shed manare would be injured by being put up in pens with acid phosphate and we thoroughly, and tramped hard; and I see you recommend the compost to be kept thoroughly moistened.

I wish to know why it is necessary to moisten at all? Last winter I dug up my stable manure tolerably fine and piled it all up in one stable without wetting, and in a few weeks dug it down and piled it back; I let two calves stand on it all the time, and it was so thoroughly pulverized that I had no difficulty in strewing it through a trumpet. Stable manure, if properly dry, may be kept any length of time without injury; but if it is dry and thrown into a loose pile, it will heat and become "fire-fanged," which injures it very much. To prevent excess of heating, it is recommended to dampen thoroughly and tramp well. If, after this is done, the heat still becomes too great, it may be reduced by adding more water. Of course it might be cooled off by cutting the pile down and forking it over. This would allow the heat to escape but it would allow valuable gases to escape also. Forking over a manure pile at short in-tervals will regulate the heat somewhat, but is always attended with loss. Moreover, if manure is dried as fast as it is dropped, although it may be fine enough to be nicely distributed, it is, nevertheless, green or fresh manure still; it has no chance to ferment or rot, and will not act as promptly the first year as a well fermented article will. It is quite desirable to put manure in a compost heap and let it ferment; provided the fermentation is kept within

W. S. C., Colliers, Ga .: How can I destroy the mole? I can scarcely get a stand of corn on my place. They eat it before it has time to come up, Do you think soaking the corn in strychnine would be advisable? Would the strychnine prevent the corn germinating, or injure its growth afterward Would the easter oil bean, planted in places where they frequent, be any assistance in exterminating the pests?

The animal that destroys your corn is probably the "mole rat," it lives under ground like the true mole, but is a smaller animal, and is a true rat with a short tail. It eats corn and other grains, also sweet potatoes, etc. The true mole does not cat grain, but often roots its way along rows where manure has been put, because insects and worms frequent such places, Of course it destroys plants also, disturbing their roots, not by eating them. We do notknow whether soaking corn is at sichnine will destroy its germinating power, rather think it would not. At any rate some extra grains soaked in streyhuine or arsenic might be dropped along the row for the benefit of the mole rats. The arsenic might be better than the strychnine, as it is tasteless and the bit-terness of the strychnine might deter the rat frem eating the corn. Have often seen the statement that the castor oil plant will drive off moles, but have no well authenticated facts on that point.

J. P. M., Barnesville, Ga. : I wish to contest for some of the premiums offered by the National cotton planters' association. Character of land gray, with clay subsoit; will make 1,500 pounds seed cotton per acre without any manure. One plat of land has been in turnips and potatoes for three years, and heavily manured with compost to three years, and heavily manured with compost to the years, and heavily manured with compost to the planter was extensively used, one which acid phosphate was extensively used; one in cotton last year, and manured also with compost; one in corn, but was also composted hearily. No vegetation on either plat except stalks. How would you prepare the land; what fertilizers and how much would you use to obtain best results? Cost not an object, for cotton and

The preparation of clean land should be deferred as late as possible; but it should be very thorough, running plows and harrows as long as any good results were observable. The manure should be broadcasted and thoroughly mixed with the soil by repeated plowings and harrowings. This is of first importance. On such land as you describe, a complete manure is called for, and nothing is better than good compost. If made by Furman's formula, the quantity of cotton seed might be reduced emewhat, when intended for cotton; for earn it might remain unchanged. Broadcast, a ton of compost might be safely risked; there would not be much danger in three tons being applied to an acre. A little ammoniated fertilizer, say 50 pounds per acre, might be put in drill with seed when planted. This will give the young plants a good start.

By order of the Board.

Clerk Co. Com. Roads and Revenu To Hon. Board of Commissioners of Roads and Rev

To Hon. Board of Commissioners of Roads and Revenues, Fulton County.

We, the undersigned commissioners appointed by you at your last meeting to view and lay out the premises for the proposed change of the district lines between Buckhead and Collins district, beg leave to make this our report. After the most thorough examination of the lines and boundaries of the same, we find that the proposed change will work no injury to the district of Buckhead, nor to any citizen thereof, nor to the county of Fulton, if the change be made without expense to said county. We find that the change will be of great advantage to the farming interest of those wishing the lines changed, on account of the impossibility ofmaintaining the fences along the bottom lands on the river and creeks in aid cut-off. We recommend that the lines be changed as follows: Commencing at Moore's mill, and running in astraight line, northeast to southeast corner of L lot 218, thence northeast to southeast corner of L lot 218, thence northeast to southeast corner of L lot 218, thence northeast to southeast corner of L lot 218, thence northeast to southeast corner of L lot 218, thence northeast to southeast corner of L lot 218, thence north to southeast corner of L lot 218, thence northeast to southeast corner of L lot 218, thence northeast to southeast corner of L lot 218, thence northeast of Pleasant thild charch, thence he a southwestern direction to the river, along a fence that belongs to Wm. Brown and 6. A. Howell's estate and the lands of J. W. Brown and Wiles Brown

J. L. MATHIESON,

WM. BROWN, J. M. MOORE. We, the undersigned commissioners, appointed to lay out the lines between Collins district and Buckhead district respectfully recommend thatour report to your honorable body be amended so as read the description as follows:

read the description as follows:
Commencing at the corner of S. Mathews, on Peachtree creek, and running northeast to the southeast corner of L lot 196, running along the line between Mathews and Moore, thence to the river on the same line to the same point as described in the other petition.

THE effort of the promoters of the Atlanta Musical union to establish the association on a firm basis, deserves the hearty support of the city. The association has among its membership many of the most prominent business men and citizens of Atlanta, and the interest manifested by them in the work of organizing and developing the musical talent of the city, in an association which would do credit to a much larger place, is a highly commendable one, and deserves the hearty co-operation of our citizens.

EVEN little Belgium is putting on its uniform, and brightening up its guns, for what it fears will be a continental conflict. Though it would have the right to expect protection by its neutrality, it has no assurances that Bismarck would not march his army across its boundary in making a bee line for Paris. During the Franco-Prussian war Belgium was neutralized at the instance of Great Britain, but in the event of another outburst between these two powers, England would be less likely to interfere as it has enough of its own to care for, and is showing a disposition to stand hands off. In the mean time America calmly awaits the beginning of hostilities.

republican organs are, as a general painfully silent in their comments on ction of the president in vetoing the disability pension bill, which provided for the reckless squandering of millions of dollars belonging to the people. A few of them are outspoken in their indorsement of the veto, but the great majority are keeping quiet about it, not daring to spring it as a party issue, with public sentiment so overwhelmingly against the measure, yet lacking the courage to approve the course of a ! democratic president. The president played the strongest card of his administration in vetoing the bill, and will find that he will be abundantly sustained in his position.

By a recent decision of a New York-court. the way is cleared for the beginning of the ion of the New York Area road, which is to run below the surface of Broadway. Wealthy real estate owners along the street injoined the company on the ground that the tunnelling of the street would disturb the underground vaults reaching below the surface of the street. The court decided that the vault owners had no vested rights beyond the curb lines. It is said that the increase in travel in the city is such as to demand more facilities for transport from one end of the island to the other. The elevated roads are overtaxed and cannot with safety increase their capacity. The surface roads are too slow for long distances, and the only remedy lies in going beneath the surface, which, it is said, the Arcade railway company will at once proceed to do.

ACCORDING to the governor of Virginia, the farmers of that state are in a bad way. They have less money, he says, than at any sime since the surrender at Appomattox Courthouse. This is rather striking testimony against the democratic state and national administrations. No wonder there are signs of a political upheaval in the old dominion. -New York Tribune.

After twenty years of republican misrule, it is no wonder that the farmers of Virginia are in the plight described by the Tribune. Virginia probably more than any other state has suffered the evils of republican carpetbag rule, and just when it found its way to be cleared of this, Readjuster Mahone, with his gang of renegades, caught it by the throat and well nigh throttled it. No wonder the farmers of Virginia are in a bad fix. But in a short while both Mahone and Riddleberger will be succeeded by worthy representatives of the grand old state, and with republicanism and radicalism defeated, there will be no reason why its people cannot enjoy their old time prosperity.

THE Right Reverend William Mercer Green, bishop of Mississippi, who died on Sunday, was a nonagenarian. He was born in 1798. He was the oldest living bishop in this country, if not in England also, and was the second but one in seniority of office. He was a contemporary of George Washington for nineteen months, a fact which conveys to this generation almost a supernatural longevity and ranks him as one of the historic personages of the country. He was made bishop of Mississippi in 1850, and was still in active service, though for several years there has been an assistant bishop of that state. He was professor of belleslettres at Chapel Hill, N. C., from 1837 to 1849, being in the latter year elected to the pest of bishop, when he went to Mississippi and took up his regidence at Jackson. After the war he moved to Columbus, and in 1866 fixed his home at the little mountain village of Suwanee, in the shadow of the church's institution there, and there he has brought his labors to a close. He was the third chancellor of the university, having been pre-ceded by Bishops Elliott and Otey.

Cotton Facts and Figures.

The weekly figures of the New York Financial Chronicle show that, for the week ending Friday evening (February 11) the total receipts have reached 108,257 bales, against 130,753 bales last week, 132,531 bales the previous week and 155,884 bales three weeks since ; making the total receipts since the 1st of September, 1886, 4,594,639 bales, against 4,341,456 bales for the same period of 1885-86, showing an increase since September 1, 1886, of 253, 183 bales. The exports for the same period reach a total of 113,802 bales, of which 81,097 were to Great Britain, 4,384 to France, and 28,-321 to the rest of the continent. The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 373,500 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 1,446 bales, including-for export, 1.246 for consumption 200 for speculation and-in transit. Of the above, 300 bales were to arrive.

The imports into the continental port this week have been 69,000. There was an increase of cotton in sight Friday night of 247,597 bales as compared with the same date of 1886, an increase of 357,868 bales as compared with the corresponding date of 1885 and a decrease of 135,866 bales as compared with 1884.

The total receipts from the plantations since September 1, 1886, were 4,879,377 bales; in 1885-86 were 4,779,722 bales; in 1884-85 were 4,524,228 bales. Although the receipts at the outports the past week were 108,257 bales, the actual movement from plantations was only 104,443 bales, the balance being taken from the stocks at the interior towns. Last year the receipts from the plantations for the same week were 90,-895 bales, and for 1885 they were 52,876 bales.

The old interior stocks have decreased during the week 1,805 bales, and Friday night 122,811 bales less than at the same period last year. The receipts at the same towns have been 6,017 bales more than the same week last year, and since September 1 the receipts at all the towns are 74,834 bales more than for the same time in 1885-86. The figures of the Indian cotton move ment are interesting. Bombay appears to show an increase compared with last year in the week's receipts of 2,000 bales, and an increase in shipments of 11,000 bales, and the shipments since January 1 show an increase of 23,000 bales.

The average weight of the deliveries in Great Britain is 452 pounds per bale this season, against 457 pounds during the same time last season. The continental deliveries average 453 pounds, against 452 pounds last year, and for the whole of Europe the deliveries average 452-5 pounds per bale, against 454-5 pounds last season.

The weekly consumption in Europe is now 138,000 bales of 400 pounds each, against 134,000 bales of the same weight at the corresponding time last year. The total spinners' stocks in Great Britain and on the continent have increased 219,000 bales during the month, and are now 134,000 bales in excess of last season.

Up to January 31 the receipts at the ports this year were 262,448 bales more than in 1885-86, and 262,517 bales more than at the same time in 1884-85. The receipts since September 1 up to tonight are now 271,261 bales more than they were to the same day of the month in 1886, and 335,079 bales more than they were to the same day of the month in 1885.

The Woman in the Case. During the three weeks of the Godwin trial at Memphis the newspapers of that city refrained from making any editorial com ments. Now that the case is nearing the end, the Appeal breaks its long silence.

Our contemporary predicts the acquittal of Godwin "under the unwritten and inexorable law that the slanderer of

In this trial the name of Mrs. Polk may have caught a shadow in strange contract with the whiteness of her innocent girlhood, and the purity of he life as a loving, affectionate wife. But ever if she was guilty, as she is not, Dalton's betrayal of her would make him as infamous as does his calumnies. In one of Webster's great cases, involving the secret relations of the sexes, a man was sworn as a witness to disclose facts which means ruin to the woman. With unblushing face he de tailed a record that redounded to her honor and added graces to her good name. "How did the witness swear?" was asked of Mr. Webster. "Swore a lie like a gentleman, sir; perjured himself like a gentleman, sir," was the reply. Such a disregard of the sanctity of an oath may be shocking, despicable morality, but it is more admirable than the conduct of the villain who boastingly reveals his liaison or makes public letters inspired by a gush-ng, misplaced confidence and friendship. It is hoped this sad tragedy will serve to stay the tide of calumny. Women are defenseless. Men must learn that salacious gossip about them is more seri ous than poisoning springs or stealing property, and that a man has no good name for continence that is worth saving at the cost of the destruction of a woman's character. Let the contempt of the stronger sex run to outlawry of the man who does it, and there will grow up a condition of public opinion that will remove the necessity for the sacrifice of life. For some time the community has been frequently offended by slanders against pure women. Even girls, in their beauty and inno cence, have not escaped. The time has arrive i to fortify woman's good name with certain punishment to the defermer. There is much that is commendable in this indignant outburst, and yet there is much that should have been left unsaid. Let each case stand fairly and squarely upon its own peculiar merits.

A New Danger.

It is no doubt a good scheme to lay electric wires underground in towns and cities. For many reasons this disposition of the wires is preferable to stretching them above ground. Still, when every precaution is taken, electricity is a very uncertain factor. The other day the underground electric wires on State street, in Chicago, became disarranged in some manner, and came in contact with the iron and glass skylights in the sidewalks. The pedestrian who planted one foot on one of these lights and the other on the damp sidewalk, became a ready conductor, and a current darted through his or her anatomy in a fashion as surprising as it was shocking. A big man was the first vic-tim. He fell to the sidewalk, jumped several feet into the air and then rolled into the gutter, where he squirmed and howled until he was picked up. A lady on her way to the matinee received a shock, and was immediately transformed into a picturesque medley of gaily-colored dissolving views. Those who ran to the assistance of the sufferers were skaken out of their boots by the invisible monster, and for half an hour such confusion prevailed that the police found it impossible to restore order. In we are going to use electricity for illuminating purposes we must guard against accidents. A general disarrangement of the wires in a large city might lead to serious results.

A Bad Lot.

And now it is announced that the Princess Louise is seeking a divorce from the marquis of Lorne. In Canada, where the people still have a lively recollection of Louise and Lorne, when the latter was governor-general of the dominion, very little surprise is expressed. For years it has been plainly apparent that the relations existing between the princess and her husband were strained. When the marquis was seen in the company of the princess, he was made to feel his inferior social position. Queen Victoria exercised all of her tact to prevent an open rupture, but the ill-assorted couple were not to be controled.

There are faults on both sides. The princess inherited the time-honored stupidity of her family, with a bad temper, and an exaggerated idea of her high and mighty social position as the daughter of a queen. On the other hand, Lorne has the obstinacy of the Argylls, with a streak of the rakish which has recently made his brother, Lord Colin Campbell, the shame and scandal of his generation. Piquant stories are told of his career in Canada, where he is said to have been captured by more than one fair

Naturally, there cannot be much love los between such a husband and wife, and a divorce is not an unexpected result. Altogether, the younger members of the houses of Argyll and Guelph are a bad lot.

THE most novel strike on record is now "on" in New Orleans, where the gamblers have closed their dens in a spirit of Figue and s once flourishing industry is paralyzed. New Orleans has been noted as the gambler's para dise, where a man could win or lose by any game of chance known to the sporting frater nity. The gambling houses, which were run openly, were dazzling in their brilliancy, and the sight of them would leave an everlasting impression on one not accustomed to such scenes. The gamblers were required to pay a monthly stipend which went to support a ho for the poor. A grand jury recently unearthed a law against gaming which for seventeen years had been a dead letter. The gamblers have been indicted and the brilliant halls have been closed, the gamblers saying they will not continue business until they can get a clear understanding of the situation. In other words, if the green cloth has got to retire to the other side of a door with a spring lock on the inside, and an eye-hole for the doorkeeper, the gamblers want to know it without more ado.

COMMENT OF THE PRESS.

Cincinnati Commercial Gazette: The Cincinuati Southern railway earned last year 5.27 per cent on the common stock of $3,900,000, after, passing $56,277.71 to the sinking fund, for the redemption of capital expenditures.

New York Tribune: If congress could find some way to suppress the claim agents at Washing-ton it would do the country a great service. If all such warrants were delivered d rect to the claimants in person or through th mails, it would prevent many cases of extortion,

Omaha Bee: The total militia of the country available for military service, is stated in a letter of the secretary of war to congress to be 7,655,592. The organized militia numbers 94,600, the increase last year having been 10,600, which the officials of the war department regard as satisfactory. It is understood to be the intention of the war department. ment to look more carefully in future after the in-terests of the militia, which must be the depend-ence of the government in case of war, and the fact that congress proposes to double the appropriatio for aims and equipments, making the amoun $400,000, is evidence of a more favorable disposition

Springfield, Mass., Republican: Presiden Cleveland deserves the thanks of the country fo his courageous veto of the last effort of congress to distribute the treasury surplus in the form of pen-sions. It recalls some of the best resorts of recent presidents to the veto power to check the tendency of congress to demagogic legislation. It will prob-ably require $75,000,000 to pay the pensions of the present year—considerably more than the entire annual cost of the government b fore the war. There is no just ground for demanding that the government pension all men who were out three months for disability or need which has arisen since the war and which was not due to the war. It is contrar to public policy for the government to lavish pen sions in a way to enervate thrift and industry for a large body of men in middle life, and to destroy those honorable distinctions which mark the so dier above other recipients of public bounty.

Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette: * Signs now are that congress will appropriate a large sum for guns for land defenses of the ports. Sign that it will be intelligently applied would be gratt fying. Experience has not given assurance. Evi dence leaks out from time to time that the great guns into which Europe has put its millions and enérgies are failures; that after they are built they dare not fire them; that they are more dangerous to gunners and ship than they are to the enemy. Concurrent with this are declarations by our mo concurrent with this are declarations by our most experienced manufacturers, supported by scientific theory and experiment, that a steel gun cast in the right way is strongar than a gun built up of welded tubes, and at much less cost and greater expedition. Secretary Whitney insists on following the English guns, but the mechanical intelligence of e country is against him.

Chicago Times: Congressman Weaver, of owa, says he yesterday received word from the president that he had verbally directed the secre tary of the treasury to comply with the law regarding $1 and $2 United States notes, and would a once put such instructions in writing and send them to the secretary. At the white house, last evening, it was asserted that the president had made no written communication to Mr. Manning on the subject. The secretary and Treasurer Jordan denied having received any instructions from the president as to the issue of ones and twos either verbal or written. Evidently the word that Weaver says he received didn't come from th Weaver is a flat money crank, greatly addicted to slopping over, and that's what he seems to have been doing in regard to this matter. By the way, he announced several days ago that during this week he would rise in the house and move a resolution for the impeachment of Secretary Managing for violations of law and discourtes to congress. The tweek has nearly gone, and Weaver has not yet risen. The Iowa statesman talks a good deal, but he does not always mean what he says.

An Abused Wife Turns on Her Brutal Hus band, and Seriously Scalds Him. From the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

The women of this city owe Mrs. Alex Bar ber, a colored woman, living at 13 Taylor street, a medal, and it is very probable that a collection will be taken up for her benefit.

About 7 o clock last evening Barber, the hus band, came home under the influence of liquor. He has frequently abused his wife, but she has borne it with Christian fortitude. Barber looked around and at last found an excuse to raise a row He first amused himself by cursing her and then struck her a brutal blow, knocking her down. This was the straw that broke the camel's back. as it were. The poor woman, who had, day after day, and week after week, stood the abuse of the

Mr. Notter masked himself and followed her to the ball, where he found a man named J. A. Col lins, a Lyman street saloon keeper, monopolizing her company. The husband asked Collins if he knew with whom he was dancing, and being an-swered in the affirmative warned him to cease his attentions. A few minutes later Collins and Mrs Notier left together in a hack, and the latter ha not been seen since. Mr. Notter says that while he was at work Collins and his wife broke into his rooms and took everything in sight. The matter came up before Justice C. J. White, who fined Col-lins $100 and costs. Attorney for Collins gave no tice of appeal, whereupon Notter swore out a war-rant charging Collins with burglary. Collins is a married man, and said to be quite well off.

France Wants War. C. O. Perrault, ex-French consular agent at Montreal, is in town today, says the New York Mail and Express of February 9. He is a Knigh of the Legion of Honor, and represented his government for twelve years in Canada. He is a fin specimen of manhood, handsome and a thorough Frenchman. It is said that his diplomatic relations are such that he knows the inside nistory of nearly every question pending between Canada and other countries. He was asked by a reporter:

"You were in France and Germany some months since, What is the feeling in regard to war?" "I firmly believe that war is imminent and can not be postponed very long. In Germany the peo ple are pursuing the even tenor of their way, and is heard everywhere. France wants to wipe out the record of 1870, and is preparing for the death grapple. The small minority who want to temporize and avert a war are powerless—the popular feeling is too strong and carries everything before it. France is a bristling argenal, and the accounter. vanche. France may be torn to pieces, but Prussia will be dismembered and disunited. Whether we will get Alsace and Lorraine back h a question. There was some proposition or plan to indemnify Prussia for those two provinces, and let them come back to France. If that could not be come back to France. If that could not be then we wanted to have an agreement b which the two provinces could be made a republic omewhat like Switzerland. These plans, I think, have fallen through, and the question will be set-tled by the sword. Bismarck is forcing things as he did before Sadowa, and before 1870. Some think if he sees the election going against him he will declare war against France to avert defeat at the polls. Let him come; France is ready and the per ple are full of enthusiasm." Mrs. Cleveland in the Supreme Court.

There was a temporary lull in the dull pro-cedings of the supreme court today when the ustle of feminine garments was followed by the entrance through the marshal's private door of beautiful young lady. It was Mrs. Cleveland. She was tastefully dressed in a maroon-colored tailor-made suit. A handsome black boa which encircled her neck added to the attractiveness of her costume. She was accompained by Mrs. Folsom and another lady. Most of those present knew Mrs. Cleveland by sight, and those who did not were speedily relieved of their ignorance. M s Cleveland remained in the courtroom about thirt minutes. Although the learned counsel in the telephone suit continued his argument, apparently oblivious of Mrs. Cleveland's presence, it was obvious that his words fell upon deaf ears. Almost every eye in the chamber was fixed up.n her. The grave and dignified justices;cast furtive glances in her direction, and blushed like schoolboys when Mrs. Cleveland, in her survey of the sprroundings chanced to discover it. When she arose to go ever face was turned to follow her. As the door closed upon her retreating form, the three hundred and nore male spectators sighed as one man. Mrs. Cleve land's beauty had made converts of them all.

Women Out West. From the DesMoines Mail.

There is no place in the world where woman rises to emergencies of trust and responsibility more efficiently or frequently than in our broad western country. One of our business men was asked recently, "Why do you employ Miss —— for your bookkeeper? Can you get her services for less than you would have to pay a man?" "No,' said he, "I chose her because I know I can depend upon her to return each morning refreshed and ready for business, while a man in the same posi-

When near his end Lord Northington When near his end Lord Northing does reminded of the propriety of his receiving the solutions of religion, and he readily agreed that divine should be sent for, but when Rev. Drawith whom he had formerly been intimate, proposed he said: "No, that won't do. I can well confess to him, for the greatest sin I shall am to answer for was making him a bishop."

The Question Answered. O'er her honeysuckled door; Sweet was night—in silver shining. Yet she yearned for something most.

Perfumes were her senses steeping
In a faint yet subile tide;
Fragrant breath of roses sleeping Left her still unsatisfied.

'Mid the lilacs, soft lamenting Grieved the plaintive nightingale; Yet she coldly, half resenting, Listened listless to his tale.

Though a night such peace possesing Should all captiousness disarm, Yet she found herself confessing Nature somehow failed to charm,

Did the moon smile down too brighty?
Love-bird weary with his crill?
Roses cense the air too slightly?
What—Oh! what—was lacking still?

As she pondered thus in sadness, Stole her lover from the deor, Clasped her to his heart in cladness, Then the night lacked nothing more!

MR. THOMAS D. EVANS FALLS THROUGH AN ELEVATOR.

Me Makes a Visit to Kiser's Store and When Comi Out Mistakes an Open Bisvator for a Door-He Falls Sevan Feet and Receives Paintul Injuries.—His Condition Last Night.

Between 10 and 11 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Thomas D. Evans, of Cherokee county, re-ceived injuries which way result in his death. He is a highly respectable old gentleman, and is known by many of the business men of Atlanta, with whom, in years past, he did a heavy business. He resides at Trickham, near Can ton, in Cherokee county. He frequently comes to Atlanta on business. He is about 64 year old, and his weight must be over 200 pounds. About 10 o'clock yesterday morning he wen to see the members of the firm of M. C. & J. F. Kiser & Co., at their place of business corner of Wall and Pryor streets. He had been an excellent customer, and Mr. Kiser gave him a cordial greeting. He was made to feel at home. and for half an hour talked pleasantly with the members of the firm in the store. He bade them good-bye and started to quit the place. Instead of leaving by the door he stepped into the open elevator and fell heavily to the floor below. The distance was not more than seven feet, but the suddenness of the descent and the weight of his body contributed to make the fall a violent one. The clerks in the office did not see the accident; indeed, none knew of it till the moans of Mr. Evans were heard. The gentlemen in the store immediately went to his assistance, and tele phoned for Dr. Westmoreland, who was soon upon the spot. He made a hurried but careful examination of the old gentleman's injury and did what he could to relieve his pain. The examination disclosed the fact that his thigh was broken. Mr. Evans was carried to Westmorelaud's office, where he as given every possible attention. his injury is a very serious one for a maned his nge. Last night, though suffering acutely, he bore up heroically, Members of his family have been summoned by telegraph. As soon as he is able to travel he will be taken to his home. His daughter arrived last night. Dr. Howell thinks that he can be removed to his ome today, perhaps.

The elevator opening through which Mr Evans fell is provided with a gate, which is generally locked, but during the busy part of the day it is so much used that it is not practicable to keep it 'locked. The proprietors say that this accident is the only one which has happened in their place for fifteen years or more. They, of course, deeply regret Mr. more. They, of c Evans's misfortune.

commission Gordon received an application yesterday from Mr. Sidney Root, president of the park commission, for the use of any guns unfit for service, the guns to be mounted at old Fort Walker in Grant park. Governor Gordon granted the request, and commissioned the use of four brass Napoleons, which have been in the custody of the Rome artillery, the park commission to pay the expense of transporting the cannons from Rome to Atlanta, and also give bond for their preservation and to return the same when called upon to do so by the state. These guns were condemned as honey combed some time ago, and they will be thor-oughly inspected before they are turned over to the park commission. It is Mr. Root's de-sire to make the old fort look as near like it did during the war as possible.

THE DRAUGHTS' TOURNAMENT.

Results of Games Played Last Night-Large The draughts' tournament began last night at 7:30 in the reading room of the Y. M. C. A. Notwithstanding the bad weather, the attendance was very large. The event proved one of remarkable interest. Twelve combatants entered the lists and some lively bouts took place. At 11 o'clock, when the first evening's play closed, the score stood as follows: Allensworth played 12 games, winning 3; H. Barnes played 14 games, winning 4; J. Barnes played 16 games, winning 5; Bradley played 14 games, winning 4; Fairbanks played 16 games, winning 2; Haynes played 12 games, winning 5; Hayles played 12 games, winning 5; Hayles played 14 games, winning 5; Lenking 15; Lenking 16; Lenking wining 4: Fairbanks played 16 games, winning 2; Haynes played 12 games, winning 5; Hall played 14 games, winning 8; Jenkins played 13 games, winning 9; Miller played 14 games, winning 4; Opensham played 16 games, winning 7; Iwobinson played 9 games, winning 6; Simpkins played 18 games, winning 15. It was generally conceded before the first round was finished that the first prize would fall to either Robinson, of Atlanta, or Simpkins, of Danville. These two players stand about even, and it is by no means easy to deabout even, and it is by no means easy to de-termine which is the more skillful. Mr. Hall has also loomed up as a powerful player, and he may yet win second place. The games were witnessed by a large crowd, who maniwere witnessed by a large crowd, who manifested a lively interest in the combats between the champions. The tourney will be finished tonight. BOARD OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS. The Private Detectives Receive a Black Eye --- Other Matters.

The board of police commissioners met last evening at 7:30 o'clock. There were present Commissioners English, Martin, Brotherton, Stevens, Goldsmith and Chief of Police Connolly. Mr. English occupied the chair. The a lawyer session was somewhat brief.

The first business that ctme before the board was a petition from Messrs. W. S. Jordan, of Atlanta; L. B. Elliott, of Chattanooga, and E. P. Furner, of, Fort Smith, Arkansas. The petition states as the object of these men that they desire to form a private detective agency, undesire to form a private detective agency, under the laws of the state of Georgia, to be called the South Atlantic Detective agency, and the petititioners pray the board of police com-missioners to grant them the same powers vested in the police department of the city The petitioners were represented by Mr. Reed, of Atlanta. of Atlanta.

Mr. Reed attempted to show the benefits the Mr. Reed attempted to snow the behauts the city would derive from such an agency. He pointed to the fact that the agency would be a great help to the police department in ferreting out criminals, serving as watchmen of property, etc., and bringing all violators of the law. to justice, and hoped that the prayer of the actitioners would be granted.

Commissioner English took a decided opposite view, and stated that it was the duty of the board to oppose the scheme. It was not right, he went on to say, to the citizens of Atlanta that their every movement should be watched. As he understood the matter private detectives generally were nothing more than blackmailers. Then the board of polic than blackmailers. Then the board of police commissioners, in his opinion, did not have the power to grant police authority to individuals, and if it did, the detectives would continually come in conflict with the police of the city. He considered the present police force fully equal to any and all emergencies that may arise.

After some further discussion the petition was laid on the table and a committee appointed to wait on Judge Clarke, of the superior court, and protest against the granting of the charter.

The following accounts were presented and ordered paid: $ 16 85 Hunnicutt & Bellingrath... $ 16 85 M. Rich & Co... 2 00 Frazier & Lewis... 96 85 J. M. Smith... 98 85

Some discussion was had over a motion by Commissioner Stevens to change the hours of watch from 1 to 7 o'clock, making two watch s, only morning and night, the morning watch to consist of twenty-four and the night wat h of thirty-two men, to alternate every three months, but it was decided to lay the matter over to a future meeting.

Mr. John T. Raymond. One of the largest and most attentive audi ences of the season met Mr. Raymond last night in his inimitable presentation of that eccentric com-edy "The Woman Hater." From first to last as Mr. Samuel Bundy he kept the audience in laugh-ter by the many farcial and ludierous situations his promiscuous courtings occasioned. As an artist Mr. Raymond cannot be equalled; his facial expres-sion, his skilful confusion, his boyish eagerness well, his incomparable genius make his performances a real treat. The support is excellent in all respects. Mr. Everham as Mr. Dobbins, Miss Helen Tracy as Mrs. Joy, and Mrs. Octavia Allen as Mrs. Walton are valuable in disclosing the many interesting features of the comedy.

The people showed great appreciation of the performance, and frequent bursts of laughter and applause marked the progress and success of the play.

"The Woman Hater" will be repeated at the matinee today, and Mr. Raymond will close his engagement tonight, appearing in his original creation of Colonel Mulberry Sellers in Mark Twain's sketch.

GUIDO VENTURA'S TARGET. Translated from the French for the New Orleans

I had accompanied Dr. Noirot through the great gardens surrounding his private insane asylum, and was proceeding toward the en-trance of his private study. The celebrated alienist was telling me the history of one of his most remarkable cases—a patient we had just passed on our way through the grounds, and who had saluted us in an almost patroniz ing manner.

"That man's peculiar mania," said the doctor, "is to believe himself a famous personage, He thinks he is a son of heaven, the sovereign of the whole Celestial empire; and there is not a day he does not hand the keeper enough of dispatches, confidential letters, and diplo matic instructions for his ambassader, Marquis Tseng, to make a whole volume."

Just at that moment a sharp report rang out a few stens away. I caught the doctor's arm and exclaimed:
"What's that? One of your patients may have done something terrible."

Dr. Noirot only smiled.
"No," he said; "don't be afraid. This is another very curious case; I want you to see

And, turning to the left, he led the way to ward a little pavillion concealed from view behind a clump of trees. He mlocked a door, made me pass through a n rrow vestibule and we found ourselves in a sort of long courtyard surrounded by high walls. A tall man was standing there, attired in a costume which recalled in some of its details the Mexican dress. The man was standing with his back against the wall of the pavilion, and as we entered he lifted his arm, clutching a loaded pistol. Our advent did not disturb him in the least. He took defiberate aim, with a perfectly steady hand. I followed the direction of his aim, and I saw, about twenty paces away, about a foot from the further wall, a white face with a black hole in the middle of ican dress. The man was standing with his its forchead. It seemed to be, as well as I could make out, one of those well known plaster-casts of Greek heads. I thought I could distinguish it as a head of Diana the Huntress.

The pistol went off. The head did not move nd no splinters or fragments fell from it.
"Look," said the doctor in a whisper. "It is very singular. He never misses.'

"No, he never misses. Every ball goes in the same place—right into the little black hole, which isn't any bigger than a five-franc piece."
The man had taken another weapon from his belt. He shot. The target still remained intact. The arm was a revolver of the American pattern; the shooter fired five more balls in succession. Not one of them seemed to graze the forehead of the white face.

The doctor touched the marksman on the shoulder. He turned round. His face, heavily bearded, had a singular expression of mingled "Stop for one moment," said the doctor. The man nodded his head in consent.

The doctor led me to the other end of the court and showed me, immediately behind the plaster head, a black piece of sheet-iron that had been fastened up to protect the wall. In the very middle of the piece of sheet iron was a shining round spot, with reflections of lead caused by the crushing of the pistol bal

"Now you can see," he said, as he pointed out the exact linear correspondence of the bright spot upon the sheet-iron to the hole in the laster cast, "you can see for yourself that all he balls pass through the same hole. You you't find a single bullet mark anywhere else."
"It is marvelous," I said. 'But what a strange case this must be."

"This purfortunate rock."

"trange case this must be."

"Come along," said the doctor, "and I'll tell you all it when we get outside."

We again crossed the courtyard and passed the vestibule of the pavilion. And this is what the doctor told me, while behind us rang out the placed should be a second structure of the pavilion.

"This unfortunate man," said my host one Guido Ventura. Whether he is an Italian, a Spaniard or an American I cannot positively say. Probably an American. It is the new world which usually sends us these virtuosos in the art of using the revolver or the rifle. And, besides, it was from America that he came directly to France. You might have seen him. directly to France. You might have seen him yourself last year at the Alcazar d'Automne, where he gave four or five exhibitions, and would have drawn all Paris to see him if his series of performances had not been suddenly interrupted by circumstances which I am about to relate. But I must begin at the beginning. There is quite a romance connected with the affair and one which I am certainly the only person who knows, because during the six months this man has been with me I was the only one able to get any information from him. I have been able to get the main incidents of the story just by putting to-gether words or incidents which he would in-voluntarily speak of in moments of delerium. So I tell it to you just as I believe it to be, so I tell it to you just as I believe it to be, feeling sure my penetration is not at fault.

"When Guido Ventura came to Paris he had with him a young woman known as Miss Arabella. She was a splendid creature of about 20, with the face of a goddess and the body of a statue. Any one could observe and admire that figure of her's at the evening performances in the Alcazar, where she appeared in a closefitting page costume—pearl creat tights showed. in the Alcazar, where she appeared in a closefitting page costume—pearl-gray tights showed the fine contour of limbs both vigorous and graceful, and extremities of charming delicacy —and a doublet of black velvet confining the opulence of a torso strong, supple and full of splendid curves. When you saw her with her head proudly thrown back the face would have made you think of Diana the Huntress.

"To tell the truth, she had no end of admiters and in less than a week it had become mirers, and in less than a week it had become the fashion to go and see this wonderful Arabella, who assisted the celebrated marksman Guido Ventura in his exhibitions. She looked Guido Ventura in his exhibitions. She looked simply exquisite in her picturesque costume, which brought out her robust and elegant beauty to the best possible advantage, when she would stand with arms folded, right in the glare of the footlights, with a perfectly impassive face in front of Guido Ventura; sometimes holding a card in her hand for him to cut with a pistol ball; sometimes holding a pipe in her mouth, of which he would break the stem just two inches beyond her lips; sometimes placing a nutshell on her head for him to shatter with unerring aim.

"One moment's trembling of the marksman's hand and it would have been all up with the "One moment's trembling of the marksman's hand and it would have been all up with the splendid girl. But the hand of Guido Ventura never trembled.

"What relation did the wonderful beauty bear to him? Was she his wife? It was probable, but not certain. The question was not considered of much importance, because the couple had come from a country where a marriage may be celebrated in one state and dissolved in another. What was certain was that Guido Ventura worshipped that woman as one worships an idol, To be certain of it, it was only necessary once to see the way his eyes would flash if some too gallant gen leman in the foyer made himself a little too familiar with the beauty. Jealous? Certainly he was jealous, and you know the Othellos of the new world are not apt to be patient about certain world are not apt to be patient about certain world are not apt to be patient about certain matters.

"The man must have suffered atrociously; for his companion was as coquettish as she was pretty, and she seemed to find fun in exasperating his jealousy. Sometimes, if the notion took her, she would firt with a man that she had never seen before, showing the tact and self-possession peculiar to American girls in tantalizing as well as fascinating. Very little she seemed to care about what she made the unfortunate man suffer through pranks of this sort. One day the manager of the Alcazar himself stopped her behind the scenes as she left a group of young swells with whom she had been laughing and jesting.

"See here, my little woman, he whispered kindly, you had better take care what you are doing. That man holds your life every evening at the end of his arm."

"Arabella only laughed.

"He kill me? she answered, tossing her head. 'Stuff! He thinks too much of me to give me a scratch,"

"And every evening she possed calmly before the muzzle of the pistol, her velvet gaze quelling the anger of her lover as the eye of a lion-tamer masters a wild beast.

"One evening, only about a week after the names of Guido Venturs and Arabella had first appeared in great letters upon the advertising posters of the Alcazar, a fine-looking gentleman entered the foyer, walked directly to where the young woman was sitting, who utware the young woman was sitting, who utware and taking her where the young woman was sitting, who ut-tered a little cry of surprise, and, taking her band, lifted it to his lips. Guido tered a little cry of surprise, and, taking her band, lifted it to his lips. Guido Ventura, who was talking to the manager, turned, looked, and be same very pale. The man who had just come in was a rich American, whose persistent devotion to 'Miss' Arabella had made some sensation in New York. It had been especially on his account that Guido Ventura had made his Paristan engagement and suddenly left America. So this man had had the audacity to follow them! He could not have come to Paris except for the woman's sake. * * * * Guido Ventura had a terrible scene with his companion in her could not have come to Paris except for the woman's sake. * * * * Guido Ventura had a terrible scene with his companion in hardersing-room that evening.

"But a much more terrible scene took place eight days later. For the whole week the newly arrived American shadowed Arabella. Guido Ventura had insisted with the manager that the man should not be permitted to go behind the scener. But the American had managed to obtain an interview with the manager in his private room, and had used money lavishly, and succeeded in revoking the decree of banishment.

"When he entered the waiting room the marksman's lips were set and his brow dark. He took aim at his own reflection in one of the great mirrors just to see if his hand was steady. His hand did not tremble.

"Five minutes later he was on the stage commencing the performance. Happenning to turn his head at a certain moment he caught sight of the American's face peering from behind a side-scene. Just then Miss Arabella took up her position in front of him with folded arms and her nutshell poised upon her hair. She smiled. Who was she smiling at? * * * At the man behind the scene—Guido Ventura knew it from the direction of her eyes. * * * When she moved them again she suddenly ceased to smile and a strange expression shad-When she moved them again she suddenly ceased to smile and a strange expression shadowed her face. * * She saw Guido Ven-

SWALLOWED A LIZARD. The Price Paid by a "Coon" for an Old Silver Watch.

COLUMBIA, S. C., February 14.-[Special.]-Two little negroes engaged in a dispute to-day in Sidney park as to the capabilities of their respective stomachs, when one of them offered the other an old silver watch if he would swallow a spring lizard about two and a half inches in length. The test was immediately and length. The task was immediately and success ully performed, and the little coon now has the laugh on his comrade, and takes great delight in showing his watch and bragging how easy it was to "get away with" a lizard and a coon who "didn't have no more sense dan to bet dat way."

The Czar and Panslavism. ST. PETERSBURG, February 14.—The czar is reported to have said that the Panslavis agita-tions are antagonistic to the great Russian pol-icy, and have assisted in entailing the Bulgestion confusion. Panelavism cannot be iden-tified with the monarchial policy, to which it is opposed in many respects. It is semi-offi-cially stated that the czar maintains that the candidacy of the prince of Mingrelia for the sion. Panslavism cannot be iden Bulgarian throne must be submitted to a so brarje, and adheres to his position that the Russian policy in Bulgaria necessitates the displacement of the regents and their prefectoral nominees.

The Colt Won the Trial. The Colt Won the Trial.

COLUMBIA, S. C. February 14.—[Special.]—
George L. Winningham, a prominent young farmer, of St. George's, yesterday, attempted upon a wager, to ride an unbroken colt. Scarcely had he taken his seat in the saddle when the colt began to rear and jump, and quickly succeeded in throwing Winningham violently to the ground, his head striking the trunk of a small tree. inflicting injuries from which he died in a few hours.

Mike's New Engagement POUGHREEPSIE, N. Y., February 14.—Mike Kelly, the famous right fielder, was today released by the Chicago League Baseball club, and immediately signed a contract to play in the Boston league team for 1887. Boston paid Chicago $10.000 for Kelly's release, and agrees to pay Kelly $2,000 for his services for the coming season, and $3.000 for a photograph of the fielder to place in the club's album, making his compensation for the season $5,000. Kelly received only $2,250 from the Chicagos last year.

SHE CALLED HIM "WILLIE." A Domestic Experiment of "Buffalo Bill's"
That Did Not Work,

From the New York Herald.

From the New York Herald.

"Now it is generally supposed that a man's wife is a powerful ally for the cause of temperance, is it not?"

The speaker was Mr. William F. Cody, who is known to the gods as "Buffalo Bill." He put the question to a Herald reporter, who agreed with him. The reporter has had curtain lectures himself when he wanted to go to sleep. He said "it is" self when he wanted to go to sleep. He said "it is" very emphatically, and put lots of feeling into it, "Well, tain't so." continued the long haired hero of the frontier. "My wife is a great temperance advocate, but it was she herself who discouraged me from ever coming home sober. One night several years ago I made a good resolution. I sneaked away from the officers at the post and their poker game early in the evening and went home to show my wife just how I looked in a state of cold sobriety. That was out in Montana. When I reached our cabin door I knocked gently.

"Who is there?" asked Mrs. Cody.

"Hi's me,' said I, in quiet and gentlemanly tones, 'let me in."

"You go right away from here,' she snapped back in a tone that was anything but pleasant. 'Mr. Cody is out on a secut, and I expect him back any minute, and if he finds you here he'll kill you, sure.'

"I tried to get in but I couldn't, and so I went sure.'

"I tried to get in but I couldn't, and so I went back to the sutler's, began to fill up and sat into a game of draw down. About four o'clock in the morning I went home again, loaded for bears. I tell up against the deor like a bale of hay and be-"'Oh, is that you, Willie?' said my wife, and she opened the door,"

ETOWAH PROPERTY

To Be Developed.

FUTURE PLANS AND PURPOSES.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAVE PURCHASED THE Blowah property, and a charter has been applied for under the name of the

Etowah Iron and Manganese Company,

This property, and all rights and franchises, it is proposed to sell to that company upon terms and valuation set forth in the contract of subscription, which may be inspected by any one wishing to subscribe, at the principal cine in Atlanta, Ga., or at the office of any of our agents.

The proceeds of the sale of stock will be placed in the hands of three Trustees, for the improvement and development of the property, under the direction of the Board of Directors. It is proposed that these improvements shall be of such a character as will, within a reasonable time, return handsome dividends to the stock-holders.

Iron & Manganese Practically Inexhaustible.

The supply of Iron and Manganese ores being practically inexhaustible, furnaces for Manganese Metal and Pig Iron, and Charcoal and Chemical works, may be easily erected and worked to great profit. These and other industries which will suggest themselves to the stockholders from time to time, will make this property a hive of industry and profit, and in the course of a few years it will be one of the most valuable properties owned by any firm or corporation.

SHARES FOR SALE

ted number of shares of the Etowah Iron and Milinanese company are now for sale at 33% per cent, one-third payable when the subscription is made, one-third on the 15th of April, and the balance on the 1st of October next.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE, ATLANTA, February 14, 1887. New York exchange buying at par and selling

NEW YORK STOCKS. Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, February 14.—The new week on the Stock Exchange opened with dull, generally featureless market. The larger operators, in consequence of uncertainties in the situation, are again holding off, while transactions are mainly left to professionals. There was considerable buying of brokesionals. There was considerable buying of Louisville and Nashville in the morning, which supported the list for some time; and later Richmond and West Point became a conspicuous feature, making a sharp advance upon largely increased business. In the last hour there was a general selling movement induced by bears, ostensibly on advices of commercial troub es elsewhere. The market was generally firm early in the day, but the preponderance of bearish sentiment among room traders later had the effect of sagging prices off slowly, which was checked in some measure by movements in Louisville and Nashville and Rich-mond and West Point; but even these failed to hold the market against pressure to sell toward the close. An advance in sterling exchange rates and a general expectation of a bear raid upon resumption of experts of specie was an important factor in the duliness and weakness shown. The opening was duliness and weakness shown. The opening was about steady, first prices showing only insignificant charges from Saturday's closing figures. Prices were firm and fractional advances were made within the first hour under the lead of Louisville and Nashville. The list then became generally heavy and slowly yielded until near 1 p.m., when the market responded to extraordinary strength in Richmond and West Point, and in most cases early losses were regained. The last hour, however, saw a decided break upon more active business, and Richmond and West Point, and in most cases early losses were regained. The last hour, however, saw a decided break upon more active business, and the clese was weak at the lowest figures of the day. The total sales footed up 253,000 shares.

Exchange fairly active and firm at 486@489. Money, leaves at 46%, closing offered at 3. Sub-treasury baisances: Coin $132,445,000; currency $15,901,000, Governments dull but steady.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement in Special to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, February 14—The wheat market was flat and heavy again today, and a still lower range of prices was reached. Toward the close, however, values rallied and the closing prices were about the same as the closing prices of Saturday. The market opened a little stronger at 30½c, owing to the prevalence of a sleet storm and some discouraging reports from the wheat belt. Cables were dull, however, and speculative offerings gradually became larger, under which iprices gave way quickly, breaking off 1½c from early top figures. Toward the close it was reported that some wheat had been taken for shipment, and a reaction to 70½c followed, the market closing for the day at 70½@70½c. The report of the visible supply disclosed a decrease of 450,000 bushels, which was about the estimate that had been made by parties in trade. Export clearings were only 65,000 bushels. Special to The Constitution.

about the estimate that had been made by parties in trade. Export clearings were only 65,000 bushels. Receipts continue free.

Corn was flat in sympathy with wheat, and May option dropped off to 39% c under moderately free selling, but rallied again to 39% c where it reated at the close.

Oats ruled firm, but afterward became quite heavy. May closing at 28% c, or a fraction lower than Saturday.

AMUSEMENTS-

suit for $1,000 damages was filed in the superi-er court yesterday by William Jones against W. F. Iron and T. C. Williams. On the 24th of November, 1885, the defendants invaded the premises of the plaintiff and forcibly carried off 5000 pounds of seed cotton, worth about $250. Subsequently they made another visit to the plaintiff's house and broke it open and entered it against the remonstrances of plaintiff's wife, who was at home alone. These are the allegatious upon which the suit is based. E. H. Frazer will conduct the plaintiff's cause.

FOR INFIDELITY.—Yesterday there was filed with the clerk of the superior court a suit for tetal divorce, in which Nathan Gibson figures as plaintiff and Sarah Gibson is the defendant. The petition alleges that the two were married as plantiff and Sarah choson is the detectable. The petition alleges that the two were married on the 25th of December, 1881. They lived together us til December 25, 1883—just it wo years to the day—when they separated and have not since lived together. The petitioner claims that the cause of the estrangement was a disregard on his wife's part of those solemn yows she took at the altar. He desires the court to grant a legal separation. W. F. Wright is the petitioner's counsel.

A PAIR OF MOONSHINERS, -Yesterday United States Deputy Marshal Buice came to Atlanta, having in his custody William Everett and Jasper McKeon, two noted moonshiners. These en have been wanted for nearly a year, bu the revenue men never succeeded in capturing them. Deputy Buice surprised them while they were going along an unfrequented country road in a wagon. They had no opportunity to make any resistance or to get away. In the wagon a quantity of whisky was found. The liquor was of a superior quality, and was in big jugs. The prisoners were taken yester-day afternoon before United States Commis signer Haight, who committed them to the Ful ton county jail in default of bail.

FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS CLAIMED.-J. M. Elair yesterday filed a suit for $5,000 damages against the Georgia Pacific railway company. In his complaint he relates the subjoined facts: On the 14th day of December, 1885, his wife, Letita Blair, was a passenger in a coach of the regular passenger train on the Georgia Pacific ralway When near the water tank at Austell, a train of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad ran into the train of the Georgia Pacific railroad. In the collision Mrs. Blair was thrown violently from her sea ngainst the back of another seat. Her side wa' bruised, her hips, shoulder and spine were cruelly lacerated. When she sustained the riuries she was in a delicate condition. ing ties are such as to disable her for life and reneer her a permanent invalid. Bray and britchell will conduct her suit.

CRUEL TREATMENT.—Emma Florence yesterday filed a suit with the clerk of the sun rior court for a total divorce from her husband, George Florence. She states in her petition that she married Florence in the month of January, 1881, in Oconee county. They lived very happily together for several years. In the summer of 1883 her husband's manner toward her underwent an entire change. From the affectionate, considerate husband he was changed into an overbearing, cruel man. He mattreated her most shamefully, she alleges, and she found it a living death to remain in his house. About the middle of July, 1836, after bearing his inhumane treatment as long as she could, a separation took place. Since then he has not contributed to her support. Upon the bove allegations she bases her suit for tota divorce. George S. Thomas is her attorney.

THE CITY COURT .- The city court met yes The City Court.—The city court met yesterday at nine o'clock, Judge Van Epps presiding. Priscilla Ray was tried on an indictment for misdemeanor and acquitted. Joseph Stevens, indicted for carrying concealed weapons, was tried, and a verdict of "not guilty" was promptly rendered. Patterson Jett was tried on a similar charge and a similar verdict was submitted. The case of the state against Dr. Wile was begun. This is a curious case. Some months since Dr. Wile, who is a specialist in the department of skin diseases, was called to plant upon her arms fresh skin taken from a healthy lad. The thirteen-year-old son of Mr. Enbanks volunteered to supply the skin and cheerfully submitted to the incision of the flaying knife. the incision of the flaying knife.

About fifty small particles of skin were taken from his person and engrafted upon the person of the little girl, who was his first cousin. The testimony adduced in the witness stand yes-terday established these facts. It appears that the boy's father became highly indignant at Dr. Wile for flaying his boy, and he resolved to institute a suit against him for malicious mischief, or for assault and battery. The prosecution assumed the latter form, and Mr. Eubank is pressing it relentlessly. Yesterday all the evidence was taken. This morning Mr. L. Z. Rosser will make an argument for the defense and Solicitor Glenn will sneak for estimony adduced in the witness stand yes the defense, and Solicitor Glenn will speak for the prosecution. The case is attracting a good deal of attention,

A TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLAR SUIT. A TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLAR SUIT.

—Yesterday there was filed in the superior court of Fulton county a suit for $25,000 against the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway company. The plaintiff is Francis A. Norris. The complaint alleges that on the night of the 17th of January, 1887, he was employed in the discharge of his duties as a flagman and brakeman by the said company. Shortly before midnight the train upon which he was employed was proceeding toward Atlenta, in obedience to orders which the conductor had received. After the train had passed Seney about a mile, the plaintiff discovpassed Seney about a mile, the plaintiff discovered that a part of the train was detached. He was in the caboose with the conductor at the time, and he immediately informed the latter of his discovery. Plaintiff then got his signal lights and ran back up toward Seney to stop the oncoming passenger train. He reached a trestle, and was half way across trying his bost to signal down the passenger train. But did not succeed, for the engineer, not paying proper attention to his work, did not lock ahead and exercise due care. The train dashed forward regardless of his uplifted danger signal and he was knocked off the trestle and fell a distance of about thirty feet, receiving serious injuries. He lay unconscious for nearly nine hours, and the physicians regarded his condition as hopeless. He passed Seney about a mile, the plaintiff discov conscious for nearly nine hours, and the physicians regarded his condition as hopeless. He hovered between life and death several days, and finally was pronounced out of dauger His injuries, he claims, are of so serious a character that he will never again be in a condition to do active work; that he is permanently inespacitated for earning a living. He avers that had the locomotive driver of the passenger train been on the alert and had he exercised ordinary care in running his engine that the accident need never have happened. He lays his damages at $25,000, and has actained Gartrell and Ladsen to prosecute his suit.

THE PIEDMONT FAIR.

THE SUGGESTION OF A FAIR RE-CEIVED WITH ENTHUSIASM.

The Scheme Discussed and Meets With Universal Indorsement-An Outline of the Proposed Plan -How the Fair Can be Held-Other Fairs and the Benefits-What is Said,

The Piedmont fair is taking shape.

The proposition is— First—That the Piedmont region, a most in Temioral Administrator.—Yesterday Yudge Calhoun appointed Louis W. Thomas temporary administrator on the estate of John N. Landrum. teresting section of the country in productions and in resources, embracing that section of South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama, has made wonderful progress in the past few years. It embrace A DYING LUNATIC.—Yesterday afternoon Ordinary Calhoun received a telegram from the superintendent of the state lunatic asylum, giving the information that Mrs. Margaret C. Mitchell, an inmate of that institution, is lying at the point of death. Mrs. Mitchell was tent to the asylum from Atlanta three Yest's ago. such places as Asheville, Durham, Greenville Spartanburg, Atlanta, Chattaneoga, Knoxville, Nashville, Birmingham, Anniston, Sheffield, etc. It embraces the best manufactures and the most varied agricultural products. Atlanta is the center of this Piedmont region, and is the largest and most accessible city in it. Therefore Atlanta is the proper place for the feir.

An exposition of the products of the Piedmont section would be equal in special interest to the cotton exposition of 1881, while in variety it would be the richest exposition ever held in the south.

Second—It is proposed that the Driving Park association, which will locate its driving park this week, will make a mile track and build a club house, and fence up the grounds, and that the city will give $20,000 for putting up buildings which will belong absolutely to the city. That there be organized an exposition company which will guarantee to hold a fair every year for five years. year for five years.

Third—No plan has yet been arranged for the organization of an exposition company, but it is thought that about fifty men will be se-cured to take five hundred dollars stock, which cured to take five hundred dollars stock, which will be made payable $100 a year. This will give a bonus of five thousand dollars for each fair besides what can be obtained from the railroads, hotels and other sources. The gate money and saie of privileges in the grounds ought to pay the entire expenses, leaving a profit to the stockholders. The North Georgia association held four feirs in Atlanta a few ssociation held four fairs in Atlanta a few years ago, and paid back every dollar. The four fairs did not cost the stockholders a cent. Atlanta is much bigger now than she was then, Atlanta is much bigger now than she was then, and the interest is much greater. By extending the fair over the Piedmont region and including the Carolinas, Tennessee and Alabama, it could be made a larger and better exposition. The chances are that the stock would not only be repaid to the stockholders, but would pay a dividend.

The active organization of the National Poultry association, the Georgia Jersey Breeders' club, and the Manufacturers' association.

ers' club, and the Manufacturers' association give three organizations that would actively help the fair, each taking a department. Tae Driving Park association would, of course, secure a large number of fine horses. If it is thought proper, 100 men can be taken in so as to make the capital stock of the fair $50,000, instead of $25,000.

Colonel R. F. Maddox, who was a valuable worker in the cause of the exposition of 1851, said on yesterday, when spoken to about the Pedmont fair:

"Why, twenty determined men, made of the "Why, twenty determined men, made of the same material that gave our late cotton exposition such grand success, can easily carry this enterprise through. This city, which was only a few years ago in ashes, with now sixty-five thousand people, full of life, energy and push, that supports seventy churches, sends six thousand children to the public schools, can now carry to success an enterprise of greater. now carry to success an enterprise of greater magnitude than the late cotton exposition. It is useless and a waste of time to discuss the benefit that would accrue to each individual, from the banker to the bootblack. Our house will no doubt subscribe liberally, if it is put on a basis likely to succeed, and give every other attention we can."

Mr. J. R. Wylie said: "The Georgia Jersey Breeders club will take hold with a will. I will personally become a stockholder and we will do everything we can to make it the grandest cattle show ever seen in the south.

Mr. Winship and Mr. Hoke who are on the Mr. Winship and Mr. Hoke who are on the committee of the Georgia Jersey club, indorse what Mr. Wylie said and are enthusiastic.

Mr. M. C. Kiser spoke in this wise: "I will go into it and will be glad of the opportunity. It is a big thing for Atlanta."

Mr. D. M. Bain said: "You may put me down as a stockholder and a worker. Nothing can be done for Atlanta that will do more good.

We ran four fairs here a few years ago and paid back every man."
Mr. M. F. Amorous: "I will gladly become a stockholder and will do all I can to help. The Piedmont fair will be the biggest thing in the south."

Mr. Burton Smith put the matter in unique shape when he said: "Atlanta raised $5,000 last year for baseball; I am sure she can raise five times that much for the Piedmont fair. I will take stock in the company, and will do all i can to help the enterprise."

Captain Joseph Burke—You may count me in as a stockholder and an earnest friend of the fair. It will be a great thing for Atlanta and for the Piedmont section.

Mr. S. W. Goode—It is the biggest thing we have struck yet. I have talked to a hundred men and every one is ready to take stock in the company. Of course I am ready to take stock in it. We will make a grand thing of it.

Mr. S. H. Phelan, who is a prominent member of the Georgia Jersey club, and a fine breeder himself, said he could be counted on for a subscription and some hard work and that the Jersey club would guarantee a big Nothing was ever suggested in Atlanta which met with readier indorsement than the Piedmont fair.

It is going to be a big thing. Improper Use of Ammonia.

From the American Analyst.
The question has been frequently asked what the objection is to the carbonate of ammonia as employed by the manufacturers of some baking powders.

some baking powders.

Ammonia is acted upon by the system as a foreign and objectionable body, and excreted to prevent its action as a blood poison. It is in no sense a food, and should never be permitted to get into the stomach except by the advice of a competent physician. It is well known that water containing ammonis is unfifer drinking purposes. Prof. Smith, of Wittenberg college, who has recently given scienting investigation to the subject, in writing about "Ammonia, an ingredient of many baking powders, I regard as highly objectionable, since it seriously impairs digestion. I have examined biscuits baked with an ammoniated powder, and have found, as has been repeatedly declared, that the ammonia was still there." The eminent chemist, Dr. Doremus, of New The eminent chemist, Dr. Doremus, of New York, and Prof. Witthaus, of the University of Vermont, corroborate the statement that ammonis, if present in a baking powder, remains in the bread material; and Prof. Witthaus adds: "In my opinion a baking powder containing ammonia is much more liable to produce disturbances of digestion than one containing alum, concerning whose deleterious qualities so much has been said."

Dr. Price in a newspaper controversy some Qualities so much has been said."

Dr. Price, in a newspaper controversy some years ago, took occasion to tell what the Usited States Dispensatory stated about the unclean sources of ammonia. It is not quite as bad as that now, but it is made from gas house liquor, and this is not savory. The principal reason for the use of ammonia in baking powder is that it enables the manufacturer to use less cream of tartar and alarger quantity of starch.

der is that it enables the manufacturer to use less cream of tartar and a larger quantity of starch. Bread material leavened by baking powder that contains ammonia becomes dry very quickly. Animonia is never used in the manufacture of the best baking powders, and fortunately the public can easily obtain one that is entirely free from this objectionable ingredient. We can heartily endorse and recommend Cleveland's Superior baking powder for purity and healthfulness. Numerous analyses made by the government chemists, curselves, and other chemists in the interest of the public, have shown that this powder is made only of purest grape cream of tartar, hicarbonate of soda, and a tittle wheat flour used as a preservative, and that it is entirely free from ammonia, alum, lime, and every sdulteration.

THE ATLANTA MUSICAL ASSOCIATION. An Effort Being Made to Establish it on a Firm Basis.

This institution was designed by its promoters, who are among the leading business men of our city, to foster, encourage and develop the amateur musical talent of our city, with the intention of ultimately developing the institution into a permanent organization far beyond what is possible at present, That such an institution can succeed, if properly encouraged and supported by our business men, and become one of the leading features of our growing city at no distant day, has been well demonstrated by the success it has already accomplished. But in order that it may flourish with more vigor, and be placed on a firmer basis it needs the countenance and liberal support of Atlanta business men, just at the present time.

The Beginning of the End.

The beginning of disease is a slight debility or disorder of some of the vital organs, the stomach, the liver or the bowels usually. There are dyspeptic symptoms, the liver is troublesome, the skin grows tawney and unhealthy looking, there are pains in the right side or through the right shoulder blade. The climax is often an utter prostration of the physical energies, perhaps a fatal issue. But if the difficulty is met in time with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is always effective as a Someth Bitters, which is always effective as a remedy, and it should be reserted to at an early stage, there will be no reason to apprehend those injurious subsequent effects upon the system often entailed by entirely cured diseases. Far better is it, also, to employ this safe remedial agent in fever and ague, and other malarial complaints, than quinine and other potent drugs, which, even when they do prove effectual for a time, ruin the stomach and pair the general health.

THE QUAKER QUITS

THE SCENES OF HIS STRANGE AD-

Miller Has Unixpectedly Good Luck-Chief Connolly Decides to Let Him Loose-How the Quaker Enjoyed Being Released-He Starts on Foot for West Point, Etc., Etc.

Yesterday morning, at precisely twenty minutes past eleven o'clock, Jacob Miller, the Quaker, shook from his feet the dust, or the mud, of the gate city. He is now a disconsolate wanderer on the face of the earte.

As was stated in yesterday's Constitution, the police authorities decided to give Miller a hearing yesterday morning, so that if innocent, he could establish his innocence. After confering with Miller's lawyers, and with the pocemen who have been working up the case, Chief Conley announced that the Quaker should be released from custody; that when turned loose he should be admonished to go and not to stand upon the order of his going. Before the prisoner was in-formed of this decision he was brought forth into the officers' presence. He drew back instinctively when taken from his place of confinement and told that the chief wished to have an interview with him. Evidently he could not divine what was in store for him. Apparently he had his misgivings; he doubtless feared that the myrmidons of the law might subject him to horrible tortures. When he was led into the presence of Chief Con-mouth and his teeth chattered audibly. But his discomfiture was not to last long. But his discomiture was not to last long.

"Mr. Miller," Chief Connolly remarked, eyeing him keenly, "it has been determined by your counsel and myself after due deliberation that you shall be turned loose. This will be done provided you agree to leave the city inside of four hours. Will you agree to go if released?"

nolly and his men Miller trembled like an aspen leaf. His tongue clove to the roof of his side of four hours. Will you agree to go if released?"

"Yea, yea, verily," cried the Quaker gleefully, "I will leave thee at once."
"Will you move inside of four hours?"
"Yea, inside of four minutes," quickly responded the Quaker.
"You can get your valise and prepare to go right now. There is no use to delay. Delays are dangerous," sententiously observed the chief.
"Yes, truly," agreed Miller.

chief.

"Yes, truly," agreed Miller.

"I want you to understand that if you are seen in the city after the four hours have expired, you will be roughly treated. Perhaps you may receive a suit of tar and feathers. But for your age, Miller, you might have received this treatment before this. You can now so."

now go."

There was no necessity of impressing this proposition upon the Quaker's mind. He got his belongings and passed slowly out the stationhouse. As soon as he gained the street, however, he accelerated his pace, and when he turned up Alabama street, he was making pretty good time.

Miller was asked by a young man who had taken a lively interest in his case if he had any money, and the answer was, "Not one cent have I." A reporter of THE CONSTITUTION had a brief conversation with Miller just before he left the city. He was questioned as to his intentions, and he replied that it was his idea to get away; to go anywhere just so he got away from Atlanta.

"I think I will," said he, "go to West Point and from thence I may go westward, but I am not resolved on any course. I really do not know exactly what is best for me to do."
In discoursing about his idiosyncrasies Miller was voluble. He seemed to realize his weakness or mental aberration. Said he, "Yea I feel that I am not already by the hora." ness or mental aberration. Said he, "rea I feet that I am not altogether right here (touching his pate) but I am an' honest man. I never harmed any one. When the spell comes upon me I suffer under the hallucination that I am a Jay Gould or a Vanderbitt. I imagine I am wealthy; that I am a Monte Cristo. I feel that everybedy is a third who would rob me." "Surely you don't intend to walk all the

"Surely you don't intend to walk all the way to West Point?" the reporter asked.
"Yea, that I do," he replied, and he struck out down the railway track. Like Saint Paul, forgetting those things behind and pressing forward to those things before, the Quaker left the scenes of his remarkable adventures. And it is not likely that Atlanta will ever look upon his face again.

Adrienne Lecouvreur Magnificently Portrayed at the Richmond Theater.

From the Richmond Dispatch.
An audience that testified their delight at every available opportunity witnessed the performance of Adrienne Lecourreur at the theater last night. M'lle Rhea, as Adrienne, was sublime. She gave an ideal portrait that will be forever en graven on our memory. The many phases of char-acter required by the role received from M'lle Rhea the treatment of a great artiste. No one can equal the treatment of a great artiste. No one can equal her enthusiasm when relating her rescue by Maurice de Saxe; and what can be more delighthit than the reading of the fable of "The Two Pigeons." One can nardly realize the power Rhea can throw into her tragic scenes. She electrified her audience last night. Her death-scene was a study so realistic that a silence, as if, indeed, one was in the shadow of death, spell-bound the audience, which as a tribute was more complimentary than the loudest plaudits. All who witnessed last night's performance were delighted, and the remarks of the audience, as they left the theater—"Isn't she great?" "Wasn't she magnificent?"—were spoken truly.

The support was excellent, Mr. Forrest, Mr. Wilson, and Miss Waterman contributing to make a perfect performance.

An Appeal for Information About the History of Co. B 42nd Georgia.

To the Survivors of Co. B 42nd Ge. Vol. C. S. A.: At the last reunion of our gallant old command it was resolved to have published a complete history of our regiment. To this end one from each company was selected to get up the facts, incidents, data, etc., and forward the same to Captain W. L. Calhoun, of Atlanta, who was chosen historian for the regiment. Having been selected by you to get up the desired information for Co. B. I appeal to each of the old campany to forward me, at Buford, any official papers that you may have in your possession, or any reports or papers that would aid in the object sought to be accomplished. Such papers will be held by me as a sacred trust, to be returned to the owner as soon as they can be examined.

Let each member of the company write me his recollections of each battle, and the number killed and wounded, and the full name of each, and the name of each that died of disease.

My comrades, the history is worth preserving. Your devotion to duty, your heroic conduct, and noble bearing on the field of battle entitle you to a fair hearing irom the impartial pen of the historian.

If from any cause whatever you cannot write An Appeal for Information About the His-fair hearing from the impartial pen of the historian.

If from any cause whatever you cannot write yourself get some one to write, while you dictate your recollections of the services of the company. Age is weighing heavily on many of the survivors of the old command, and soon we must pass over the river to join the brave spirits who gave their lives for a cause they at least thought was just. Let us while we live put upon record the history of our acts, and the motives that prompted us to make the sacrifice.

Captain Calhoun intends to have a copy of the book ready to deliver to each member of the regiment by the time of next reunion. So you see how important it is that we act at once or our dear old command will be left out. Please let me hear from you at once. Respectfully, W. T. SMITH,

Late Lieutenant Company B, 42d Ga. Volunteers,

EDITORS CONSTITUTION—Please allow a correction of an error in the report of the Memorial meeting last Sunday night at the First Methodist church, as published in Monday's paper. It is there stated that Miss Dora Rankin was sent as a missionary to China by the "Woman's Missionary society of Atlanta." We cannot claim that honor exclusively. The Atlanta societies are but auxiliaries of the "Woman's Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church south," whose "Woman's Board of Missions" sent Miss Rankin to China.

She, therefore, was a representative of southern female Methodism, and our entire church now mourns for her and seeks to monor her memory. Respectfully.
